INTRODUCTION

Whilst reseatching the history of my family at the Hyde Park FHC, I noticed a microfilm purporting to contain miscellaneous Irish genealogical material. Amongst the microfilmed documents was a transcript of the earliest surviving Cloghran Parish Registers, which are known to have been destroyed in the Four Courts fire of 1922. To bring the existence of this document to the attention of a wider audience, I decided to produce a new version of the original (unattributed) transcript; this document is the result. As with all documents of this nature the original should be consulted to confirm that entries have been transcribed and indexed accurately.

The following specific points should be borne in mind when using the transcript:

Dates All dates have been standardised as follows; day in numbers, month in three letters (abbreviated as necessary), year. Any apparent errors have been shown in bold.

Legibility and Spelling In cases of doubt, the spelling of surnames has been checked against other entries in the index; variations in the spelling of the same surname have been noted.

Additional Information Marginal notes and comments from the Register copy appear in the text or as footnotes.

The Index The index lists in alphabetical order all persons who were baptised, married and buried at Cloghran over the various periods covered by the Register copy. Abbreviated Christian names have been transcribed exactly as they appear in the Register copy.

Transcriber's Observations From 1856 onwards, the original transcript noted the burial of Roman Catholics by the abbreviation 'RC'.

CLOGHRAN or CLOGHRAN-SWORDS

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE PARISH AND CHURCH

Cloghran is an ancient parish in Co Dublin, one-and-a-half miles south of Swords, and covering 1558 acres. Lewis remarked (1837) that it was known as Cloghran-Swords to distinguish it from another parish of the same name south-west of Dublin. The living was a rectory in the Diocese of Dublin, in the patronage of the Crown. Cloghran was united to Santry in 1872 by decision of the Diocesan Synod.

Cloghran Parish Church was built in 1712 at unknown cost on the site of a previous structure. It was described by Lewis (1837) as a very plain and simple edifice capable of seating 100. The glebe-house was built in 1812 at a cost of £738, the Board of First Fruits contributing a gift of £369 and a loan of the same amount. In the 1830s divine service was celebrated once on all Sundays and on Christmas Day; the Sacrament was administered six times a year. Adams (1883) reported that the church was broken into in 1852 and the parish registers (dating from the 17th century) stolen.

The church was closed after the Second World War and demolished by the remaining parishioners, apparently without formal permission.

JUBILATE DEO
(Psalm 100)

O be joyful in the Lord, all ye lands:
serve the Lord with gladness, and come before his presence with a song.

Be ye sure the Lord he is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves;
we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture.

O go your way into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise: be thankful unto him, and speak good of his Name.

For the Lord is gracious, his mercy is everlasting: and his truth endureth from generation to generation.
